PHIL*1010 Introductory Philosophy: Social and Political Issues Fall and Winter (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course introduces philosophy through an examination of important issues in politics and society, such as punishment, animal rights, discrimination, war and violence, equality and property. These issues may be introduced through contemporary or historical philosophical writings.
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*1030 Sex, Love, and Friendship Fall and Winter (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course introduces students to philosophical inquiry through the careful study of the forms of interpersonal relationships. Issues central to friendship, love, and sexuality which may be addressed include pleasure, happiness, responsibility, power and oppression, gender, marriage and morality.
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*1050 Ethics, Knowledge, and Reality Winter Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course introduces students to philosophy through the exploration of basic perennial philosophical problems and questions, such as whether there is free will, a God, objective right and wrong, genuine knowledge of the world, and other topics. The readings for the course will consist primarily of 20th century philosophical writing.
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2000 Philosophy of Biology Winter Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course focuses on philosophical issues that arise within biology, such as the explanation of altruism, the question of whether species are real, and the challenge of how to identify adaptations. The course also examines philosophical issues that arise at the interface between biology and society, such as the implications of evolutionary theory for traditional views about human nature, or the proper role for scientists in advocating for environmental policies.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits including 0.50 credits in BIOL
Restriction(s): This is a Priority Access Course. Some restrictions may apply during some time periods.
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2030 Philosophy of Medicine Fall Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
Medicine is a philosophical, not merely a practical, empirical enterprise. This course covers philosophical concepts which are widely used to evaluate health and health-practices that include: autonomy, consent, mind, will, rights, harm, fairness, dignity, truth and even 'health' itself. Issues central to health and health care practice include: the nature of professional-client relationships, genetic counseling, passive and active euthanasia, pharmacology and behaviour modification, resource allocation, and the special set of issues raised by reproductive technologies.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2060 Philosophy of Feminism I Winter Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course examines metaphysical, epistemological and ethical issues in feminist philosophy, including such topics as the nature and consequences of patriarchy, human nature, sexual divisions of labour, women’s studies, rationalizations of inequalities and explorations into a contemporary feminist agenda for social, political and economic changes.
Offering(s): Also offered through Distance Education format.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2070 Philosophy of the Environment Winter Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
Environmental Philosophy asks questions such as: How has 'nature' been conceptualized in the Western philosophical tradition, in aesthetics, science, and ethics? What arguments have been offered for the view that humans are superior among creatures? What connections might there be between the ways that nature, humankind, and animals have been conceptualized and the ways that humans have tended to act toward the non-human natural environment? This course may cover such topics as: climate change, resource extraction and justice, biotechnology, obligations to future generations, risk assessment and discount rates, species lost, conservation vs. preservation.
Offering(s): Also offered through Distance Education format.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2080 Animals in Philosophy Summer Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course will examine the concept of the animal itself, the nature of animal minds, the importance of species membership, and the relationship between human and non-human animals. It will discuss applied issues related to animal welfare, wildlife, agriculture, experimentation, and the environment. It will also explore some of the ethical, social, political and feminist perspectives on animals as they are addressed by philosophers. As such, the course aims to enable students to analyze growing concerns that animals play in our lives.
Offering(s): Offered through Distance Education format only.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph
PHIL*2100 Critical Thinking Fall and Winter (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course is designed to develop clarity of thought and method in the analysis and construction of arguments. By contrast to PHIL*2110, the emphasis here is upon informal principles of critical thinking and arguments stated in terms of ordinary language. Topics include the nature and methods of arguing, classification, definition and fallacies.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2110 Formal Logic Winter Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course studies the basic principles and techniques of formal logic. The analysis of the logical structure of sentences and arguments is explored, together with the fundamental principles of elementary sentential logic and quantification.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2120 Ethics Fall and Winter (LEC: 3) [0.50]
Philosophical ethics is the attempt to systematize, explain, and justify the standards by which we evaluate our conduct as persons. The course may include treatment of controversial ethical issues such as abortion, euthanasia, war, and the treatment of animals and will cover many of the following questions: can we expect to find a single, universal code of ethics that applies to all human beings, or do such codes vary for each society or even for each individual? What are the roles of reason and emotion in ethics? Is morality grounded on a principle, and if so, what is it? Are there any traits of character that one must have to be a good person? Given that traditional ethical codes have been almost universally sexist, how must ethics be refashioned in order for women to achieve equal recognition?
Offering(s): Also offered through Distance Education format.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2140 Ancient Greek Philosophy Fall Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
A survey of the beginnings of Western philosophy, this course will focus on themes such as the nature of reality, the ways we might come to have knowledge, and the good life for human beings. This course will typically consider such thinkers as Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, and Epicurus, although the specific course content will vary with the instructor.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1030, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2160 Early Modern Philosophy: Reason vs. Experience Winter Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
Philosophers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries grappled with a central question regarding the foundation of human knowledge: Does knowledge arise from pure reasoning alone or from sensory experience? This question inspired debates regarding scepticism, the nature of reality, the connection between mind and body, language and meaning, moral certainty, and the relationship between religion and science, to name but a few.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1030, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2170 Existentialism Fall Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
Existentialism is a philosophy built around the experience of human freedom. This course focuses on the character of the subject who makes choices, and on the personal and political responsibilities that attach to the making of decisions. The course will examine this and other themes associated with Existentialism through nineteenth and twentieth century representatives, which may include Kierkegaard, Sartre, de Beauvoir, Camus and others.
Offering(s): Offered in odd-numbered years.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2180 Philosophy of Science Fall Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
As a system of knowledge pursuit, science develops laws and theories to explain, predict, understand, and control empirical phenomena. This course introduces students to many of the challenging assumptions, foundations, and implications of science. Topics include the nature of scientific knowledge, the structure of scientific theories, the distinction between science and pseudo-science, whether there is a scientific method, and how social and political processes influence the way science develops.
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1050)
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*2240 Knowledge and Belief Fall Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course is an introduction to epistemology, which is the study of the nature, scope, and limits of knowledge. This course will examine a number of the central questions in epistemology, such as: what can we know? What is the nature of knowledge? And what is the difference between knowledge and true belief?
Prerequisite(s): 2.00 credits or (1 of PHIL*1000, PHIL*1010, PHIL*1030, PHIL*1050)

Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*3060 Medieval Philosophy Winter Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
An overview of philosophical thought of the Middle Ages, that is, roughly of the period between 500 AD and 1500 AD. The course will focus on several themes from the Christian, Jewish and Islamic traditions to show that many of the philosophical concerns of the present day were also of concern to thinkers of the period. In particular, we will look at the relationship between knowledge and belief, the nature of human happiness, the question of whether God exists and, if so, whether his existence can be rationally demonstrated, and the problem of free will, among others. Thinkers to be discussed will generally include St. Augustine (354-430), St. Anselm (1033-1109), al-Farabi (ca. 850-ca. 950), Maimonides (1135-1204) and St. Thomas Aquinas (1224/25-1274).

Restriction(s): PHIL*3080, PHIL*3090
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*3100 Metaphysics Winter Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
A common way of thinking of the world is that it consists of objects with properties that persist through time while changing in different ways. Yet there are deep puzzles about each of these basic, seemingly indispensable concepts. What does it take to be an object? How much can an object change without becoming a different object? Are some or all of an object’s properties essential to it? Metaphysics is the business of proposing and debating answers to these questions and related questions. This course introduces students to these debates.
Offering(s): Offered in odd-numbered years.
Prerequisite(s): 1.50 credits in Philosophy or 7.50 credits
Department(s): Department of Philosophy
Location(s): Guelph

PHIL*3160 Metaphysics Winter Only (LEC: 3) [0.50]
This course is an advanced introduction to the central issues in metaphysics. Topics to be explored include the nature of values and ethical systems, duties and rights, private and public goods, the consumer movement, social marketing, corporate social accounting, private right and professional responsibility.
